Prologue

Now we, like countless others before us, may muse upon our Seniorhood, upon the Saint Mary's we have known, upon the memories we share with our classmates. We startled Seniors realize that now we have more in common with the Alumnae than with the jocular juniors who sat at our tables and laughed at our parallel reading and tolerated our dignity. We feel very old, for we have known the quiet traditions that our grandmothers knew, and yet very young for we are part of the new ideas of student government and current events courses. Our very graduation is indicative of the progress we have seen in our careers at school. The 1941 STAGE COACH is a record of our school life, a careful picture of us as individuals, of the effect of tradition upon us, and of our effect upon Saint Mary's. Suddenly Saint Mary's does not belong to us alone. Holt will see other Easter corsages, will echo with phone calls for other ears. The excitement of commencement has for us a touch of wistfulness.

Where We Walk

In square, good-natured stolidity West Rock echoes the laughter of 1941 and remembers the wisteria-covered days of its youth.

The Chapel holds a constant promise of the peace so often forgotten in the not-too-carefree rush of daily events.

Holding fast to its miniature mysteries of spotlights and "backstage," the Auditorium pompously rings to the oratory of Daniel Webster and the haunting impressionism of Debussy.

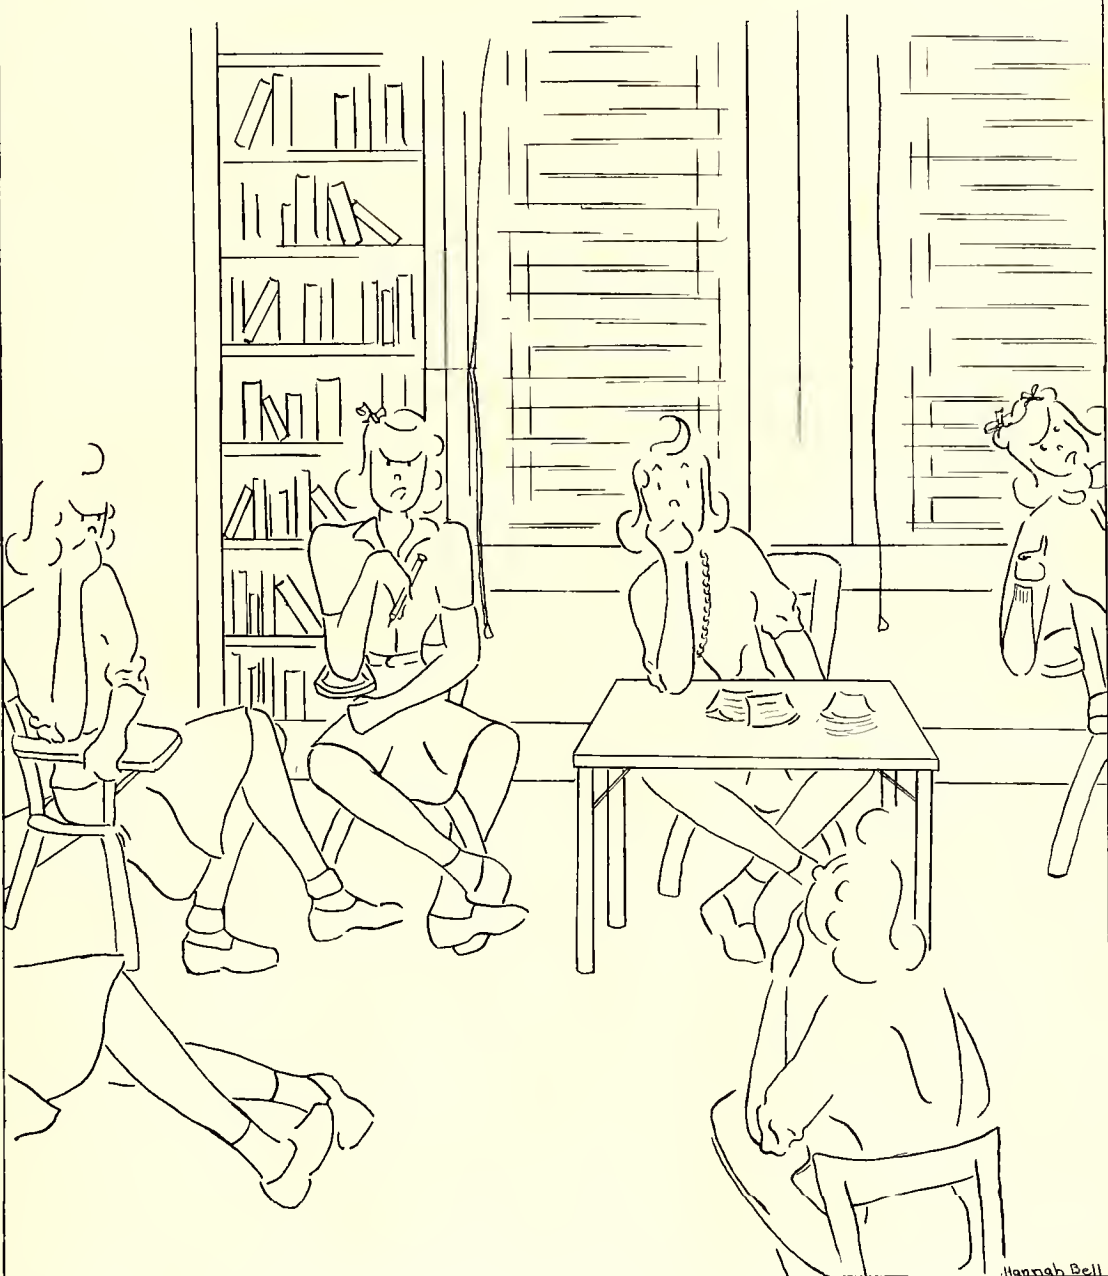

The light-hearted echoes of laughter fade wistfully as coveted Holt passes to a new regime.

The white-pillared portals of Smedes bespeak majestic, benevolent protection for the ninety-ninth little world within their walls.

THOSE WHO GUIDE US

Dedicated to

MRS. NANNIE H. MARRIOTT

whose efficiency, skilled direction, and ready willingness is manifested daily in our dining room, dormitories, and social life.

Student Government Officers

The STUDENT GOVERNMENT OFFICERS hold the most difficult, and by far the most responsible, positions in school. Adelaide Curtis has proved herself an able leader. With friendliness born of true understanding of her fellow-students' problems, and an interest in everything and everyone, she has handled the 1941 Student Body with rare skill. Jinnette Hood, affable and pleasant, has made a place for herself as Adelaide's right-hand man. Personable Gale Lamb has reaped a reward of hardened fingers from her extensive work in holding the responsible position of Secretary of the Honor Council. Katherine Kirby has brought the boarding and day students closer together by her conscientious efforts to interest the latter in more campus activities. As Editor of the fall Handbook and Chairman of the Hall Council, Page Marshall has guided the Hall Council wisely and well and leaves her successor an excellent example of administration.

These girls by their untiring efforts in strengthening the bond between students and faculty have left shoes whose successors will have to step lively to fill them capably next year.

With fairness and understanding as its watchword, the Honor Council is the Supreme Court of Saint Mary's.

ELIZABETH WILLCOX, HELEN FORD, JINETTE HOOD, ADLAIDE CURTIS, President; ELLA GALE LAMB, OLIVIA ANN SMITH, MARY LOVE

The Honor Council

The HONOR COUNCIL has the distinction of being the Supreme Court of the Student Government Association. Respected by every student who realizes the benefits of being a part of this self-governing community, the Honor Council has as its duty the general supervision of student conduct and dealing with infringements of the Honor Code. Although the Student Government Association is not new at Saint Mary's, it is in a formative period still. It requires careful guidance to increase its efficiency and to maintain the high standard created by previous councils. With fairness and wisdom beyond their years, the members of this council have assumed the difficult duty of administering justice and guiding their fellow-students and have contributed strength and permanence to the Association.

The Hall Council regulates dormitory life and handles its routine problems sympathetically and wisely.

Hall Council

The HALL COUNCIL, which handles all routine dormitory regulations, was created in 1939 to supplement the Honor Council. The Council, consisting of a chairman, a faculty adviser, and student representatives from the various classes, meets once a week to consider factors governing dormitory life. This year it was instrumental in setting up a point system which simplified the structure of campus regulations. A particularly successful group, the Hall Council has helped increase the efficiency of Student Government, and has fostered a better understanding between faculty and students.

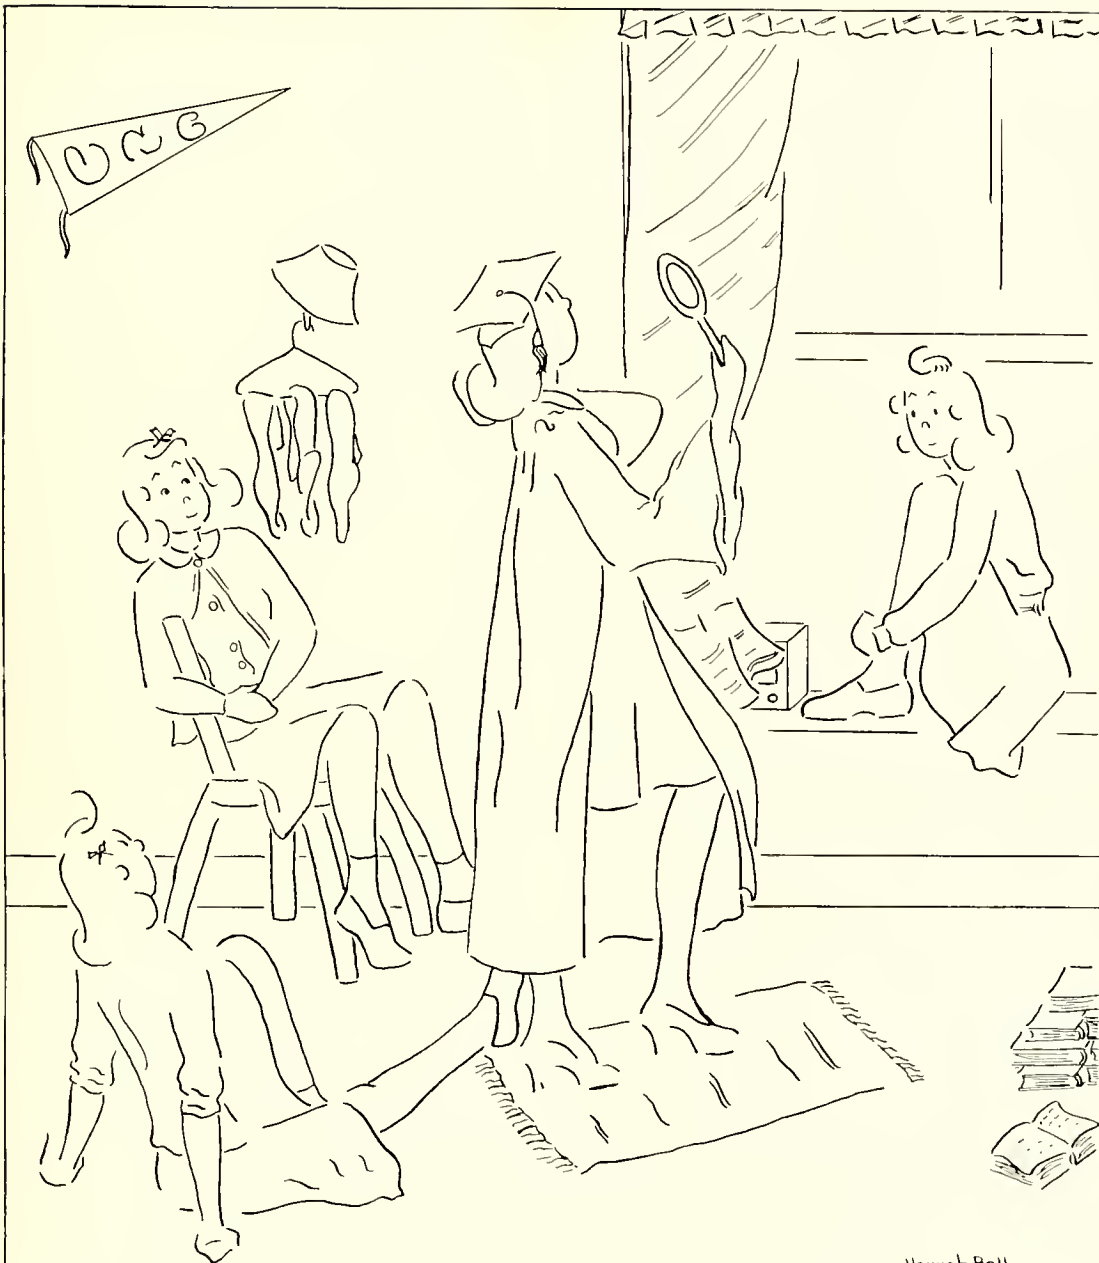

Through this group funnels the student body's progressive ideas.

The Legislative Body

To the LEGISLATIVE BODY go all petitions affecting school life. Students who desire new regulations or the revision of old ones submit petitions to this body, which revises and passes or rejects them. This group consists of the class presidents, the president of the Student Body, the president of the Day Students, faculty representatives, and other student representatives elected by the Student Body. As soon as a petition has been approved by the president of the school, it is incorporated into the regulations and goes immediately into effect. Each year through the efforts of this group are extended social privileges which tend to increase the pleasures of school and dormitory life. The Hall Council and Honor Council supervise the regulations adopted by the Legislative Body.

WHO WE ARE

With traditional grace the officers of the class of 1941 have served the Seniors as leaders and as friends.

KATHERINE FLEMING, Vice President; JANICE FITZGERALD, Secretary; ELVIRA CHEATHAM, President

Senior Class Officers

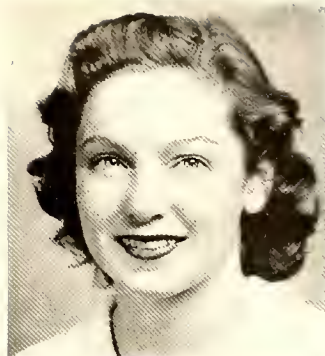

The SENIORS, guided by their sprightly president, greeted shy new-comers on Smedes front steps one hot September 10. True, they didn't feel like Seniors then, but a few weeks of sleeping through breakfast on Monday mornings and hunching at the Little Store on Saturdays convinced them that they were. Coveted Holt Hall was their abode, from which came the chatter of Senior meetings, quotations from Chaucer and the Monday morning click of toasters. These same Seniors usually were seen with noses buried in Eleven British Writers or Seven French Plays, but they could rustle in taffeta 'n' orchids at the Senior dance, cheer at football games, and go with their dates to Saturday night movies like regular promtrotters to whom the Malthusian theory of the increase of population or Schopenhauer's psychological theory meant absolutely nothing. They had their fingers in every pie and were the driving force behind every undertaking, whether it was Bundles for Britain or May Day. They endeared themselves to both faculty and students by their earnestness, willingness, and sincere kindness.

FRANCES POWE, Vice President; BETTY THORPE, Secretary; ELIZABETH ADKINS, President

The officers of the Junior Class have welded the vivacious, provocative, unpredictable horde of September's Juniors into a unified student body majority, the Seniors-to-be.

After taking the bumps with a smile, these SENIORS-TO-BE step to the front to fill in the gap created by their respected elders who were graduated in May. They constitute the largest body in the school and bring with them each year new ideas and eager interests that stimulate the development of the school. From this group that is the lifeblood of the school the Leaders of the coming year are selected to carry on and develop the work of the previous year. The Juniors step lively each Spring sponsoring the annual Junior-Senior and the Class Day daisy chain preparing to take the reins as the Senior Class of 1942.

Belles

These three enthusiastic journalists and their adviser peer microscopically at galley proof and with literary abandon edit the "Belles," the "Bulletin," and the STAGE COACH.

To the harassed PUBLICATIONS STAFF, the year is one assignment after another. One staff of nineteen members and the three editors of the semiweekly Belles, the quarterly Bulletin and the annual STAGE COACH contributes all of the copy for these three publications. Stimulated by the swift, sure hands of Nancy McKinley, the Belles has maintained and developed the high standard set by former editors. Nancy, who believes that no paper is of any literary value unless it presents a balanced diet of fact and fun, has endeavored to give the students not only what they want but articles that will stimulate their interest in events in other fields. Versatile and original Ann Seeley, who edits the Bulletin between contributions to the Belles, has captured the spirit and high spots of Saint Mary's in her spring edition. She has added color to that really literary publication by snapshots and formal pictures of campus life. She has incorporated in her brainchild the journalistic and literary efforts of the members of the E.A.P. and Sigma Lambda literary societies. The 1941 STAGE COACH this year has endeavored to show the progress in school life and the contributions of this Student Body to the school. No better person than Margaret Gold Swindell could have been chosen to cope with the tremendous undertaking of organizing the most permanent publication of the school year. She has contributed her originality and individuality to this annual. Not to be outdone by the resplendent water colors of the year before, Sue Noble, 1941 Art Editor, undertook the tedious task of collecting brightly daubed end-sheets and title pages. Sue, who undertook most of the art work, was assisted primarily by Pat Bell, and Elizabeth Ann Jones. Ann Seeley, and Miss Harris, who have bent their efforts to giving this annual life and color. Mary Emily Claiborne and Meredith Wilkinson are the chief student photographers and as mainstays of the Photography Club succeeded in adding local color and personal touches with snapshots. The editors of all three publications are as usual indebted to Mr. Moore, their faculty adviser, who has contributed so readily his time and energy to make sure that these publications are worthy of the school and student body.

As a circle symbolizes unity, so the purpose of this organization is to promote a spirit of coöperation between faculty and the students by the cultivation of high ideals of fellowship, service, citizenship, and scholarship, and to assist new students in finding their places in school life and activities.

Literary Societies

These girls learn the value of frank, outspoken criticism, and give vent to their opinions, their dreams, and their favorite tales in essays, poems, and short stories.

The Sigma Lambda (top) and E.A.P. Literary Societies are rivals in the field of creative writing. The girls get practical experience in expressing ideas and presenting criticism. The finest selections among their essays, poems, and short stories are awarded points in competition for the Literary Society cup, won last year by the E.A.P.'s, this year by the Sigma Lambda's.

French Club

Under the enthusiastic direction of Miss Johnson, the French Club has, with spontaneity, folk songs, puppets, and Southern French accents, greatly enlivened Tuesday nights.

Deutscher Verein

The German club students discuss culture and problems of pre-war Germany. The members of the Deutscher Verein this year devoted themselves mainly to relief work for Great Britain.

Dramatic Club

For competition and for entertainment the Dramatic Club works with footlights, greasepaint, and frequent lapses of memory under the authoritative and enthusiastic eyes of its five officers.

The DRAMATIC CLUB under the direction of Miss Florence Davis presented The Devil and Daniel Webster at the annual drama festival at Chapel Hill in April. The Commencement Play was As You Like It. Also, the club gave an indoor circus with everything from sawdust to side shows as its Bundles-for-Britain project.

Political Science Club

To the POLITICAL SCIENCE CLUB each year come speakers to enlighten the members on such vital matters as government and current affairs. It is an open forum for all who are interested in national and international problems and pay for a clearer understanding of the complex world outside the grove.

Voices blend in loud Amen.

Each Sunday the choir under the able guidance of Mr. Broughton and Miss Cate contributes to the chapel services its hymns of praise.

The angel chorus, the March of the Wise Men and the clear sweet soprano of Cordelia Jones as the Virgin Mary in the CHRISTMAS PAGEANT were as much a part of our Christmas celebration as Christmas trees and tinsel.

"Still grows the evening o'er Bethlehem town."

Athletics

Through the untiring efforts of Miss Harvey and Miss Goss, athletics is one of the main features on the campus. In the hours devoted to dancing, the students learn rhythm and the fundamentals of movement. The ideas of May Day are worked out in these classes, and the participants in the pageant are chosen on the basis of their grace and rhythmical interpretation.

There is keen competition between the Sigma's and Mu's in all branches of athletics, and the members of the honorary Letter Club are chosen from the all star teams of the various sports. The athletic council, made up of the two instructors, the president of the Sigma's and the Mu's, president of the Letter Club, and two other students, arrange the physical education program for the year including classes, play day, outside sports, and May Day.

The Sigma-Mu party, our first athletic meet of the year, provided fun and excitement for all. The faculty, good sports that they are, joined students in the most hilarious and undignified relay races.

Hockey, kickball, basketball and volley ball games followed one another in swift succession until Spring called classes and students to the tennis courts. Eight on a court practiced their forehand, back hand and serving strokes until they ironed out the kinks in their technique, and then they began to play in earnest. "Move up to it! You've got to move!" Miss Harvey coaches and then draws a laugh by an exaggerated take-off on some erring Alice Marble. The final tennis team played some beautiful games. The courts were full and the sound of racquet and ball was heard day in and day out. The swimming meet brought exciting relays and competitive diving in which our best swimmers showed beautiful form. Senior Life Saving students had killed two birds with one stone by getting off their eight hours of required swimming and becoming Senior Life Savers in one "stroke." Everyone had a chance to play his favorite sport on the Play Days when the whole school turned out en masse to compete. A well organized afternoon of athletic diversion lured us all out to find our places under the sun and competition was almost of the cutthroat variety. The Drive sold drinks to thirsty athletes and tension ran high until the scores were tabulated and the winning athletic team made known. This year the requirements for membership in the Letter Club were changed. Admission requirements for entrance to the club were placed on the basis of belonging to two All Star teams while those students on one All Star team were awarded monograms. The athletic banquet was a high spot of the year climaxed with toasts and awards, and the winning society was awarded the plaque amidst cheers and applause.

Let's Dance

Saint Mary's holds three formal dances every year, one each sponsored by the Seniors, Juniors and Underclassmen respectively. Students armed with papers of pins and brightly colored crepe paper transform the gym into Central Park or Paris in the spring on short notice. Girl-break dances provide less formal, but equally enjoyable opportunities for Saturday night diversion. Dance Marshals, chosen from the different classes, supervise the formal and informal dances and see that they all run off smoothly. Mary White is Chief Dance Marshal and her assistants are: senior class, Katherine Fleming, Elizabeth Toepelman; junior class, Langhorne Alexander, Vi Johnson, Mildred Lee; underclassmen, Dorothy Harris, Almeria Holmes, Cora Lucas, Eleanor Thomas, and Elizabeth Thorne.

- May Court

Three tales from Arabian Nights unfolded with all of the extravagant splendor of the Orient.

The elaborate spectacle of Arabian Nights unfolded before an appreciative audience on May 10. The scene opened with the entrance of sulky, resplendant King Shahriar, his attendants and his harem. In his search for amusement he required a new wife every night. In desperation the Grand Vizier introduced his daughter, Scherherazade, who inexhaustibly told the stories of Aladdin, Sinbad, and Ali Baba. These told, the King now satisfied that Scheherazade would be an interesting companion, crowned her his queen. Lovely, stately Anna Wood was Scheherazade, the May Queen and comely Anne Davis was her younger sister, Dinarzade. The members of the Harem court were Katherine Fleming, Jean Meredith, Margaret Blount, Anna Jean Rogers, Biz Toepelman, Mary Peters, Buddy Alexander, Jean Shelton, Nancy O'Herron, and Eleanor Thomas.

Marshals

Early every spring five members of the Junior Class are elected by the Student Body to be Marshals. These girls are chosen on the basis of posture, poise, personality, and patience, for theirs is the duty of leading and seating the Student Body and maintaining order in the Chapel and Auditorium. From the time that they assume office on Easter Sunday, their duties range from ushering in the Chapel to collecting ballots when the students vote. At all school entertainments they usher, distribute programs, and accommodate the students as well as town visitors. The Chief Marshal dismisses the Student Body after graduation exercises by dropping, traditionally, her handkerchief.

1941 - Honogram Girls

From a group of ten girls chosen by the faculty, the Honor Council and class presidents select six who have best exemplified loyalty to the school, who have continually worked for the betterment of Saint Mary's:

"Render Unto Caesar" . . .

Few students when they read THE STAGE COACH and look with interest through its pages realize the long hours of continued effort and capability required of the staff in the preparation of copy, calls on the merchants, and the many other endless duties required of an efficient staff member. So—give it a thought and render a tribute to those staff members of your publication who have served faithfully their school and their fellow students in these extra curricula activities.
